

JUST ANNOUNCED

Sex, drugs, and Robert Rodriguez burlesque at Gorilla Tango Theatre

Unfortunately, Rodriguez won't be doing the stripping.

By Alyssa Vitale January 5, 2012

Gorilla Tango Theatre, well known for its burlesque parodies of the Mario Bros. and Lord Of The Rings, has announced its new showcase for the striptease. El Mari Chi Chi: A Robert Rodriguez Burlesque will run from Feb. 4 through the end of March.

In classic Rodriguez fashion, the story includes drug cartels, scantily clad ladies, a man with a gun, and some overzealous vengeance. The plot follows Mari, a macho mariachi man seeking revenge on drug lord Mierda (a name that translates beautifully into English as "shit"). Mierda has murdered one of Mari's favorite ladies, so Mari joins forces with some amigos to fight the overwhelming forces of the drug lord. Unfortunately, the audience won't see the real life Danny Trejo in burlesque attire, but presumably the ladies of Gorilla Tango will suffice.

ARTICLE TOOLS

Tweet <10

Like

+1 0

Email

Print

Share

MORE JUST ANNOUNCED

White Rabbits announce new album and tour dates

RELATED ARTICLES

Gorilla Tango's Fellowship Of The Boobs set to drive nerds wild

Danny Trejo

Oh, Luigi!: Checking out Gorilla Tango Theatre's new Super Mario Burlesque

Official Machete Trailer HD

0:00 / 2:01